"Where Ideas and Success Converge"

Dear Wells County Chamber Members,

During this time of uncertainty we want to make sure you know We Are Here For YOU!

We have compiled this one-stop Business Resource Guide to give you important links to often asked questions and resources to help you through this transition in your business.

In this guide you will find:

- COVID-19 Small Business Resources
- IN.Gov Recent Updates & Important Links from Governor Holcomb's office
- 8 Things Your Small Business Needs to Do during COVID-19
- Success During a Pandemic
- Chamber Member Restaurants Offering Curbside, Takeout and Delivery
- Chamber Member Retail and Service Businesses Patron Accommodations, Hours, and Information

Chamber Members are here to help one another in any way they possibly can. Thoughts could include Pierre's Party and Tent Rental setting up tents for sanitation stations or social distancing during breaks, call our local restaurants for catering to your business if employees are unable to leave for lunch, or call Treeboy Productions to coordinate a quick video to promote your business. The ideas are endless. Call us and we can connect you.

This is an evolving situation and information and resources will be updated as soon as we can. Please continue to check our Facebook page for updates.

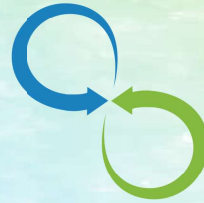

Upcoming events going into April are currently on hold as we get information. We will keep you updated as we know more.

Should you have any questions or needs, please do not hesitate to contact us at 260.824.0510 or eprible@wellscoc.com. Our plans are to continue keeping our doors open and be available for our community.

Sincerely,

Erin Prible

INDIANAPOLIS 3.17.2020— In a continuing effort to slow the spread of novel coronavirus (COVID-19), Governor Eric J. Holcomb has announced additional efforts.

Here are additional directives from Governor Holcomb:

- The governor's executive order also activates the Indiana National Guard to be on duty to assist as needed.
- The governor's executive order also delays non-essential public meetings. For essential meetings, one member is required to be physically present, but other members will be allowed to participate electronically.
- Bars, nightclubs and restaurants should now be closed to dine-in patrons. They may provide take-out and delivery services through the end of March. The Governor expects those businesses to comply with the directive for the safety of Hoosiers in their communities without the need to call for enforcement measures.

Indiana Women, Infants, and Children (WIC) program has provided guidance to WIC agencies to help them continue to serve clients while protecting staff and their families. <https://www.in.gov/isdh/19691.htm>

The CDC has issued new guidance for when people can come out of self-isolation or quarantine. <https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-ncov/if-you-are-sick/steps-when-sick.html>

The ISDH call center continues to experience high volume. Hoosiers with general questions are encouraged to visit the website in.gov/coronavirus for more information. ISDH has implemented a toll-free call center at 877-826-0011 that includes options for healthcare providers as well as the public. Call center staff will not offer medical advice or provide test results.

- The Indiana Department of Workforce Development (DWD) has 12 Workforce Regions throughout the state. At least one WorkOne is open in each region.
- Here is a link to FAQ on Unemployment Insurance: https://www.in.gov/dwd/files/Indiana_Unemployment_FAQ.pdf

More information may be found at the ISDH website at in.gov/coronavirus/ and the CDC website at <https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-ncov/index.html>.

8 Things Your Small Business Needs to Do

WELLS COUNTY INDIANA
CHAMBER OF COMMERCE
ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT
"Where Ideas and Success Converge"

Here are the top CDC-recommended tips that small business owners can take to mitigate risk, protect employees and support customers during the COVID-19 pandemic.

The COVID-19 pandemic is spreading rapidly, with new updates flying in every minute. As the situation evolves, many small business owners are unsure of what steps to take to mitigate risk, protect employees and support customers.

Establish a remote work option

With plenty of people already working remotely, there are a lot of free tools business owners can utilize so that teams can stay in touch and keep working even if they aren't in the same place.

Implement a remote work policy that covers when you expect your team to be online or available, how to communicate (via email, Slack, or video call, for instance), and what deliverables each team member is responsible for completing.

Reduce meetings and travel

Try to keep opportunities for exposure to the virus to a minimum. Postpone any team meetings or hold them virtually. Skip any conferences or other planned business travel. If your workers get sick because of travel or meetings, you could have a liability issue on your hands, or you will have to manage low morale and sick leave requests.

Give employees flexibility

Schools across the country are closing, as are offices, stores, businesses and commercial centers. With the country slowly moving toward total lockdown, you will need to be flexible with your employees' time. Some team members may have to leave unexpectedly if their child's daycare closes. Others may have students who come home from school for spring break and aren't able to return. Try to be as understanding as possible when something comes up and have a contingency plan in case you suddenly become short-staffed.

Communicate transparently with your customers

Everyone is facing this crisis together, so be transparent about what your business is going through. Customers can empathize with brands facing a crisis, as long as you communicate with them properly.

As Harvard Business Review reports, "When customers are separated from the work that's being done behind the scenes to serve them, they appreciate the service less and then they value the service less." Describe the steps you're taking to mitigate risk and give them insight into the steps you're taking to help the community.

Be obsessive about hygiene

Stop the spread of the virus by following these health and safety tips from the CDC:

- No handshakes: Use a non-contact method for greetings.
 - Wash your hands: Employees should wash their hands when they arrive and every time they enter the premises, as well as frequently throughout the day.
 - Try not to touch your face, and remind employees to do the same
 - Constantly and regularly disinfect surfaces, including doorknobs, handrails, the POS system, tables and desks.
- Keep your employees and your customers safe by being as proactive as possible about cleanliness.

8 Things Your Small Business Needs to Do

WELLS COUNTY INDIANA
ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT
"Where Ideas and Success Converge"

Shift your sales strategy to online

Chinese companies, forced to confront the reality of coronavirus shutdowns before most American companies, provide a blueprint for weathering this storm. As storefronts shuttered their doors and workers stayed in place, savvy business owners shifted their sales strategy to avoid heavy losses.

Consider business interruption insurance

Business interruption insurance may be an option for you if you have significant business losses as a result of shutting down from the pandemic. "Ask your insurance broker about business interruption insurance to cover unexpected major events and see what qualifies for coverage. It may not cover this emergency, but you'll be better prepared for the next time your business suffers similar economic losses," reports USA Today.

Plan for the long term

Though China and other economies are already starting to recover, the spread of the coronavirus is still extending throughout the world, creating a ripple effect that will impact us for some time.

As reported in SmallBizTrends, "27% of businesses expect the coronavirus to have a moderate to high impact on their revenue. Another 30% expect the virus to have a moderate to high impact on their supply chain." Speak to your suppliers, investors, partners and local officials on a daily basis to learn how you can start to implement safeguards that will help you stay above the red while officials work to contain COVID-19. It might be a while until your small business gets back to business as usual.

SUPPORT

SUCCESS

DURING A PANDEMIC

Because the Chamber of Commerce knows how important it is for you to succeed in businesses over the coming weeks, we want to help you get creative!

Know Your Limits First

Consider Client Accessibility, Your Staff Limitations, and Updated CDC Guidelines

Expand Services

Think Outside of the Box. Consider Altering or Expanding Your Services Temporarily To Reach Your Clients.

Go Virtual

Don't Lose Out Over Personal Interaction. Go Live, Teach Virtually, Snapchat, Facetime and Share To Instagram Stories.

CHANGE YOUR EXPECTATIONS

Letting go of some of your expectations will help you adapt quicker to the shock of current business restrictions and may help lessen the emotional burden. You are not alone. Consider reaching out to your local Chamber of Commerce for business support.
